Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Taxes payable by investors have not been taken into account. The figures shown have been provided for illustrative purposes – they are unaudited and subject to change. The total returns shown are prepared on an exit to exit basis – they include all ongoing fees and expenses and assume reinvestment of all distributions. Returns inclusive of franking credits are calculated by attributing a cash value to each franking credit, and assuming that amount is re-invested, along with all other distributions. Figures including franking credits should not be relied upon as an exact indication of performance or be compared to returns of other managed funds which do not include amounts for franking credits. The level of franking of distributions may vary.

Due to differences in business dates at month end, Fund performance returns are provided as at 27 September 2018, and benchmark performance returns are provided as at 30 September 2018. The monthly, quarterly and annual performance returns have been impacted.

Growth returns are measured by the movement in the Yarra Enhanced Income Fund's unit price, ex-distribution. Distribution return is the proportion of the total return which is paid to unitholders by way of distribution. It does not include distribution amounts deemed as capital distributions.

Returns inclusive of franking credits are calculated by attributing a cash value to each franking credit, and assuming that amount is re-invested, along with all other distributions. ## Market Summary

US-China trade tensions continued to feature prominently during the September quarter. The US imposed a 10% tariff on US$200bn of imports from China effective late September. US trade relations with the rest of the world (including Mexico and Canada, Korea and Japan) improved. In Europe, Brexit negotiations remained challenging and Italy's planned fiscal expansion continued to be a concern.

Sovereign bond yields were mostly higher over the quarter. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) increased rates as expected at its September meeting, and their projections indicated they expected rates to increase at the same pace as their previous forecasts. i.e. one further hike in December and three further hikes in 2019. Economic conditions were strong, with the Fed more confident on the inflation outlook. The European Central Bank sounded more confident on inflation and repeated it would reduce asset purchases to EUR15bn per month from October until December, and keep interest rates at its current low level until at least after the summer of 2019. The Bank of England increased rates in August for only the second time since 2007 and signalled a gradual and limited ongoing tightening in policy.

Australia economic data were mostly positive. Q1 GDP was a strong 0.9%q/q, 3.4%y/y. Consumption notably grew at 3.0%y/y as household spending was solid across a broad range of categories, including retail. Employment growth helped household incomes, but there was little sign of wage inflation accelerating. Employment rose 44k in August, with large gains in full time jobs reported. The pace of jobs growth was steady at 2.5%, as was the unemployment rate at 5.3%. Wage growth was slightly higher but remained relatively slow at 2.1%y/y.

Q2 headline CPI was below expectations at 0.4%q/q, 2.1%y/y. The biggest drivers of inflation were petrol, seasonal increases in health costs and the tobacco excise tax. Excluding fuel, inflation rose only 0.1%q/q. Core inflation rose 0.5%q/q, 1.9%y/y as expected. Terms of trade fell -1.3%q/q as import prices increased, but was still +2.1%y/y.

Consumer sentiment was neutral in September at 100.5 on mortgage rate increases and political instability, which saw

Scott Morrison replacing Malcolm Turnbull as the party leader and Prime Minister. Business conditions remained at a historically high +15 as trading conditions, profitability and employment all remained firm. S&P reaffirmed Australia's AAA rating and changed the outlook to AAA/stable from AAA/negative following the expectation that the government's fiscal position will return to surplus by 2020.

Portfolio review and outlook

The Yarra Enhanced Income Fund returned 2.59% (including franking) over the September quarter, or 221 bps above the RBA cash rate. Returns over the quarter were predominately driven by strong performance in financials and in particular, old-style hybrid securities. On a 12-month view, the Fund has returned 6.79%, outperforming the RBA cash rate by 529 bps on a net basis.

We continue to believe Australian credit will remain attractive versus global peers due to its higher quality and lower duration (high floating rate exposure). Should outright yields rise aggressively, we expect the asset class to outperform on a relative basis. We expect credit fundamentals (i.e. issuer quality) to continue to support Australian credit spreads.

Australian corporates continue to display a disciplined approach to their balance sheet and liability management and there appears to be little evidence of Australian Corporates appreciably increasing leverage. The Australian major banks also continue to be proactive in raising capital and remain committed in their quest to become "unquestionably strong". Finally, any new issuance will likely be met with strong demand, as supply/demand trends continues to be favourable, placing upward pressure on corporate credit and hybrid pricing.
